

WOMAN FIGHTS THIEF AND JOINS IN LONG PURSUIT

Plucky Mrs. Fursey Grapples
With Man She Finds
Looting Flat.

Meet of the population of the district about Brook avenue and East One Hundred and Forty-first street, Bronx, engaged to-day in a wild chase for ten blocks after a little rat-faced sneak-thief whose cheeks were scratched and bleeding from the finger nails of Mrs. William Fursey, of No. 450 East One Hundred and Forty-first street, whose apartments he had robbed.

Mrs. Fursey had been calling on a neighbor and when she returned she found the door of her apartment, which she had locked, open. In the dining-room she came upon a man rifling the sideboard.

"Who are you? What do you want here?" she demanded.

"I'm a bottle peddler," said the man, "have you any to sell?"

Mrs. Fursey is muscular, and as the man ran for the door she grabbed him. He fought her violently, and finally wrestled away from her, but not before her fingers had ploughed great ridges down his face. He darted into the street and up Brook avenue.

John Dillon, a plasterer, was passing with his tools as Mrs. Fursey ran up, and told him what had happened. Dillon, shouting "Stop thief!" raced after the fleeing man. He hurried his long trowel at the fugitive, but only hit him in the leg. By this time men, women and children were in the chase, and their shouts brought others to swell the pursuit.

Nightstick Ended Chase.
At One Hundred and Forty-third street and Brook avenue Policeman Michaels rushed to intercept the crook. The man dodged, however, with great agility, and got past Michaels, followed by the crowd, ran after him at top speed, and at One Hundred and Forty-fifth street, and Brook avenue managed to throw his nightstick with such good aim that it hit the man in the back and doubled him up.

Michaels took the man to the Alexander avenue station, where he said he was Peter Crotty, of No. 443 East One Hundred and Twentieth street, a painter, out of work. The police found on him a gold watch and chain, a bunch of skeleton keys and three pocketbooks, one of which Mrs. Fursey identified as hers.

The neighborhood in which the thief chased took place is one of the best in the Bronx and has for several months past been overrun by burglars. One man, in particular, the police are after. He has always worked alone and, so far, the loss of about $50,000 worth of property has been attributed to him.

REDMOND DENIES UPPOAR AT IRISH CONVENTION.

In Cable to Secretary of United League of America He Says Proceedings Were Orderly.

BOSTON, Feb. 11.—John O'Callaghan, national secretary of the United Irish League of America, to-day received the following cablegram from John E. Redmond, referring to the convention of the United Irish League.

"Greatest convention ever held in Ireland. Practical unanimity in support of party. Nation's thanks voted to America for generous support. Cable to America suggesting that disorder occurred participated in by clerical members of Parliament and others absolutely false. No violence of any sort. O'Brien refused hearing by delegates; nothing more."

SHIPWRECKED CREW MAROONED ON ISLAND

Three-Masted Schooner
Strands on Bleak Island
Off the Main Coast.

Homan & Puddington, ship brokers, of No. 31 New street, were anxiously awaiting further particulars to-day of their three-masted schooner Georgia, which was wrecked on Monroo Island, off Owl's Head, Penobscot Bay, yesterday. The schooner in ballast and under command of Capt. Smith, with a crew of six men, was bound for New York from St. John's, N. F.

Buffeted by sea and wind, the schooner was headed for Penobscot Bay, in search of shelter, but she mistook a heavy snow prevailed, and it was with great difficulty and hardships that Capt. Smith and his crew escaped to the rocky island, where they are still marooned.

The owners of the schooner said to-day that, as they have had to word from Capt. Smith, they fear that he has been unable to communicate with the mainland and is still held a prisoner on the island.

The interior fire department of the store of Frederick Looser & Co., at Fulton and Bond streets, Brooklyn, distinguished itself this afternoon by putting out a little blaze in the engine-room of the building before the city firemen arrived. Some insulation in the basement burned out and set fire to a pile of waste. Five minutes later there was nothing but a smudge left of the fire. Some smoke drifted into the building, but the bargain hunters refused to be deterred and kept right on hunting, and business was only interrupted when the city firemen came to inspect the results of the work of the store's own force.
